

RITA LOPEZ BROSNAN, LCPC

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR
SOUTHWEST CHICAGO, SOUTHEAST CHICAGO, AND DUPAGE CENTER

Rita Lopez Brosnan is the executive director of Metropolitan Family Services Southwest Center. A licensed clinical professional counselor, Lopez Brosnan has her certification in providing services to victims of rape and sexual assault. She is also a certified trainer in ASIST (Applied Suicide Intervention Skills), and she has experience working in the child welfare system.

Lopez Brosnan has experience developing, implementing and supervising an integrated healthcare initiative, which brought primary care into a behavioral health setting. At the Health Department she was part of a turnaround team that helped to implement their electronic health records and lead a change management process for the entire organization.

Prior to going back to graduate school in behavioral health and human services, Lopez Brosnan was an early childhood educator in bilingual classrooms for two different school districts and had a focus on language development in young children.
